Joining a Specific Game Channel in Discord

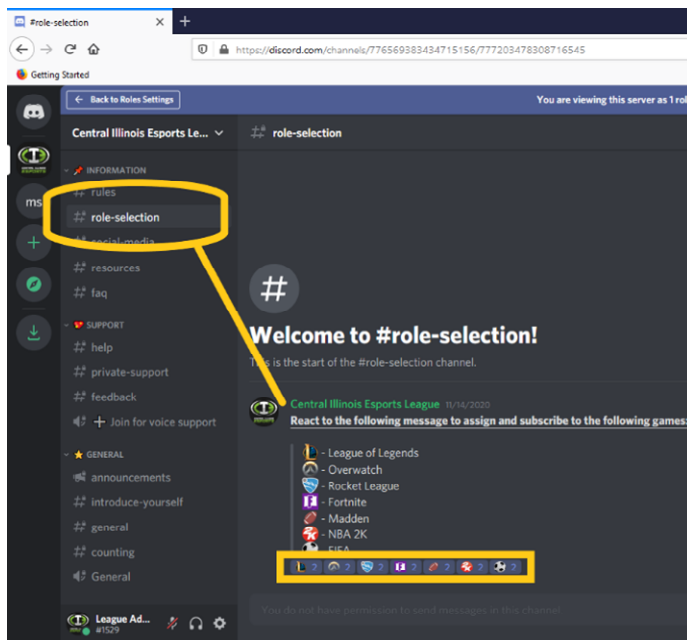

Did you just join a league and create your Discord account? It is time to jump into your game's Discord channel to stay up to date on announcements, schedules and results! Follow these instructions:

1. After your account has been verified in Discord, you will be able to go to the "Information" tab on the left side. Select "role-selection".

2. If you do not see "role-selection", it may mean that your account has not yet been verified. Please locate the "verify" channel at the top left of the page and go through the prompted steps. If you have any trouble completing this process, please contact our League Administration.

3. Once you are in the “role-selection” channel, you will be able to ‘react’ to the game title you are playing by clicking on the appropriate icon.

3. You will then have access to the game specific channel in Discord where you can see league information. There will also be a section for you report match results.
