

Did you know that Maxwell Park is a bird hotspot in McLean County? Many bird species build nests and raise fledglings at Maxwell including rare species. Join IWU Professor Given Harper for a leisurely bird walk through the park to see why Maxwell is so special for birdwatchers. Given is a birding expert and has done extensive research into the birds that breed across Normal-Bloomington. Three pairs of loaner binoculars will be provided to share.

Friday, July 9 at 7:30 AM

Maxwell Park Pavillion 307 N. Parkside Rd.

Come take a bird walk with Mercy! The Town's recent efforts to restore the natural areas at Hidden Creek have greatly improved the bird habitat. On this walk, you will see birds that nest in Normal and birds that call Normal home year-round. This walk is appropriate for people of all ages and abilities. Three pairs of loaner binoculars will be provided to share.

Saturday, July 16 at 7:30 AM

*Hidden Creek Park
100 W. Sycamore St.*

(309) 454-9540
www.NormalParks.org

